

I Am With You

My Beloved Children,

I am with you in the beginning, when the song of the earth is new and you are growing to its rhythm.

I am with you when you open your eyes and take your first breath.

I am with you as you take your first steps and laugh at the joy of freedom that comes with movement and independence.

I am with you when you shed your first tears over the pain of separation, and the responsibility that comes with being you own.

I am with you as you discover the joys and ecstasies of living in a human body.

I am with you in the confusion and pain that comes from feeling trapped within a human body.

I am with you when the beauty of a sunset takes your breath away and your first kiss brings it back to you.

I am with you when the pain of loss overwhelms you and threatens to pull you under.

I am with you to bring you back from the brink.

I am with you to whisper the words of love in your heart when you cannot remember them.

I am with you as you bring forth life into the world in all its many forms.

I am with you when the hardest choices stand before you waiting to be made.

I am with you to reveal the wondrous secrets and mysteries that the unfolding creation is always placing before you.

I am here, I am here, I am here.

I am with you so that you can be with yourself.

I am with you so that you can be with God.

I am with you as the twilight begins to enfold you, and the world goes quiet and all that once was will never be again.

I am with you, I cherish you, I honor you, and I love you.

I am with you.
